Dear Clare, When we, book bloggers, finish a book, we often start thinking about the best way to review it. We want our opinion to be clear. We want to convey what happened to us between the opening and the ending page of the author's work. When I put down After The End I understood a review wouldn't do. This is why I am writing you a letter.

Clare Short - Wikipedia

Dear Clare, I saw something a few nights ago that I wanted to show you: fireflies gathering like stars underneath a hundred-year-old beech maple tree, glittering in the gloom. I thought of you as they seemed to flicker in and out of being — now sparkling, then melding into the evening — because you, too, are on the verge of life on earth.
