The franchise agreement is a legally binding contract which serves two important purposes. First, it gives the franchisee the right to use your brand and business systems in their own business; and second, it enables you, the franchisor, to control the franchisee to ensure they follow your systems exactly as you want them to.

When you're franchising your business, you also need to create a franchise operations manual. While most people who have entered into the process have a strong grasp of their business and have overall systems documented, almost no one has a detailed, 200-page, step-by-step manual required to support your franchisees.
