God's Undertaker : Has Science Buried God? by John C ...

Lennox begins God's Undertaker by making a critical distinction between science and materialist/naturalist philosophy that, in and of itself, provides a resounding response in the negative to the question posed in the book's subtitle (Has science buried God?).

Review: God's Undertaker by John Lennox | Books | The Guardian

God's Undertaker is, first of all, a readable survey of the scientific evidence for design. Even though there are a number of other very-well written works dealing with similar subject matter, Lennox's book is still outstanding in making the arguments not just readable, but interesting and connected.

- naturalist thinkers tell us that science has eliminated God whereas scientists who are theists tell us that science confirms their faith in God. P.20. - science based on the conviction that the universe is orderly. Comes from the conviction that the universe is governed by a single God and not by the whims of many gods (p.20). Also the medieval insistence on the rationality of God. Many of the fathers of modern science were theists eg. Galileo and Kepler.
