ACCEPTANCE . . .

Hounded by God reveals Joseph Gentilini to be a contemplative, deeply spiritual man in love with God and committed to his Catholic faith, though for now, his relationship with God has become more of an authority in his life than his relationship with the Church.

Hooked on the Occult, Hounded by Demons Until God's Power . . .

In Hounded by God, the author writes about his struggle to integrate his homosexuality with his personality and his Catholic-Christian spirituality. Born in 1948, he grew up in the 50s, 60s, and 70s when homosexuality was considered either a mental illness or a major sin. In 1968, he had his first homosexual experience.

Unfortunately, a very angry Celtic god wants that sword, and he's hounded Atticus for centuries. Now the determined deity has tracked him down, and Atticus will need all his power—plus the help of a seductive goddess of death, his vampire and werewolf team of attorneys, a bartender possessed by a Hindu witch, and some good old-fashioned luck of the Irish—to kick some Celtic arse and deliver himself from evil.
