The 1930s Housewife - A Housewife's Work

Homemaking is a mainly American term for the management of a home, otherwise known as housework, housekeeping, or household management. It is the act of overseeing the organizational, day-to-day operations of a house or estate, and the managing of other domestic concerns.

Housework and Housewives in Modern American Advertising ...

Housewives in America were typical in the middle of the 20th century among middle-class and upper-class white families. Black families, recent immigrants, and other minority groups tended not to benefit from the union wages, government policies, and other factors that led to white wives being able to stay at home during these decades.

1950s Household Montage; Cooking and Laundry

Every edition, there was a cut-out-and-keep on housework, cooking, health, children etc, which could then be kept in a binder. The housewife who collected the ones I have didn't manage to get them all (there is some missing.) I don't know how long the cut-outs went on for, but this housewife managed to collect 56 of them.
