Mistakes Were Made (But Not by Me): Why We Justify Foolish ...

"Mistakes were made" is an expression that is commonly used as a rhetorical device, whereby a speaker acknowledges that a situation was handled poorly or inappropriately but seeks to evade any direct admission or accusation of responsibility by not specifying the person who made the mistakes. The acknowledgement of "mistakes" is framed in an abstract sense, with no direct reference to who made the mistakes. A less evasive construction might be along the lines of "I made mistakes" or "John Doe ma

Mistakes Were Made But Not By Me Summary | SuperSummary

Our mistake-phobic culture, or equating stupidity with mistakes, causes people not to learn from their mistakes. To help others do this, we must encourage mistakes, confusion, and hard work as part of the learning process, and reward those who push through learning challenges, particularly in children.
