The Explosion of Debt and Speculation F R E D M A G D O F F Stagnation and Finance In a series of articles in Monthly Review and in Monthly Review Press books during the 1970s and 1980s, Harry Magdoff and Paul Sweezy proposed that the general economic tendency of mature capitalism is towards stagnation.* A shortage of profitable investment opportunities is the primary cause of this tendency.

Financial Implosion and Stagnation

This is a good - but brief, and somewhat dated - analysis of economic relations. The focus is primarily the USA in the 1970's and 1980's. The massive economic downturn of the mid-70's resulted in a range of monetarist policies (mostly associated with Reagan), which subsequently generated further financial difficulties and a period of general stagnation.

Economic stagnation is a prolonged period of slow economic growth (traditionally measured in terms of the GDP growth), usually accompanied by high unemployment. Under some definitions, “ slow ” means significantly slower than potential growth as estimated by macroeconomists, even though the growth rate may be nominally higher than in other countries not experiencing economic stagnation.
